Five MIGs Shot Down Over Matsu

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist planes viewed with concern the air battle over the Matsu Islands Sunday in which they claimed five Soviet-made MIG fighters were shot down.

Some of the Nationalist pilots credited with kills said the Communist planes were MIG-15s, the latest model supersonic jet fighter, and not MIG-17s as earlier reported.

The battle took place in the wake of reports attributed in Taipei to Nationalist agents on the mainland that the Red Chinese decided at a military conference last weekend to create a new crisis in Formosa Strait.

The air battle was the biggest in the Formosa area in nine months. The Nationalist air force gave this account: four Nationalist pilots, flying U.S.-made Sabre Jets, were on a routine patrol south of the Nationalist-held offshore Matsu Islands at the northern end of the strait. They were jumped by 12 MIGs. In a swirling 13-minute battle four MIGs plunged into the water.

A fifth MIG was hit both from the air and by antiaircraft guns on the Pailuan-White Dog Islands, 11 miles south of the Matsu. It too plunged into the strait. The pilot bailed out and was rescued by a Nationalist boat about 500 yards from shore but died immediately.

Four other Sabres were ordered to the battle, but it was over before they arrived. All the Sabres returned safely to their base in northern Formosa.

The pilots were acclaimed as heroes by the new chief of the general staff, Gen. Peng Meng-chi, and the commander in chief of the air force, Gen. Chen Chien-shang, who rushed to the base as soon as they heard of the battle.

Rear Adm. Liu Hoh-tu, chief spokesman of the Defense Ministry, said the Red MIGs attacked "absolutely without provocation."

"This indicates that the enemy is seeking every opportunity to create trouble," he declared. "But whatever happens we are prepared and vigilant."

The air force said the kills were accomplished without the use of the Sidewinder, an air-to-air missile which is guided to its target by the heat of an enemy's tailpipe.

The Nationalist military news service said Communist planes strafed the White Dog Islands and that antiaircraft guns opened fire. It was the first time any of the Matsu group were reported attacked from the air.

Peiping radio broadcast Sunday that two American warships intruded into Chinese territorial waters Saturday and Sunday. Peiping issued what it called its "54th serious warning" against such alleged intrusions.

Police Raid Sunday Sales

MIDDLETOWN (AP) — State police Sunday raided the Middletown Merchandise Mart for the sixth successive week and arrested 12 persons for alleged violations of the Sunday sales law.

A total of 81 arrests has been made in the series of raids, many of them against the same persons.

Boy Missing In Coolbaugh Area

A 16-YEAR-OLD BOY, victim of cerebral palsy, was the object of a large search yesterday following his disappearance Saturday at 4:30 p.m. from his Pocono Gardens, Gouldsboro R.D., home in Coolbaugh Township.

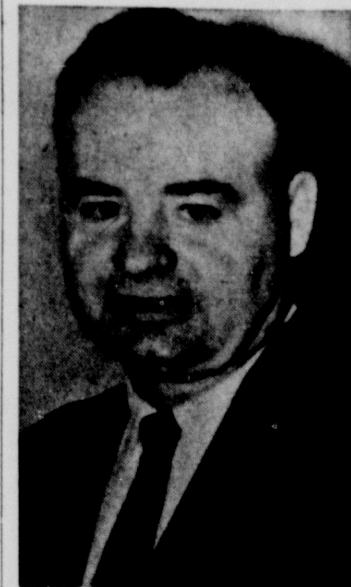

State police at Mount Pocono said volunteer firemen, police, and airplanes from Tobyhanna Signal Depot and the Civil Air Patrol in Scranton joined together in a search of the area of Coolbaugh Sand and Gravel Co. near the boy's home.

Missing is Robert Lynott, who recently arrived with his parents for the summer. Police said he is subject to attacks of cerebral palsy and was pessimistic of the search's outcome.

Lynott was last seen heading toward a spring at the rear of his house with a small dog. Police described him as white, male, 16 years old, five feet, 10 inches in height, 145 to 150 pounds heavy, fair complexion, with brown eyes and hair. He was wearing a red shirt, blue dungarees and white sneakers.

Israeli Government Resigns

Action Ends Debate On Arms Deal

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli government resigned Sunday after a 10-day crisis over Israel's arms deal with West Germany.

The action under the leadership of Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion had been expected following the refusal of four dissenting ministers to agree to an ultimatum that they quit the Cabinet.

Ben-Gurion handed a letter to President Izhak Ben-Zvi, explaining the reasons for the resignation.

In his letter, Ben-Gurion charged the four ministers had violated a 1957 pledge to support all cabinet decisions or resign. The agreement in the coalition was based on the principle of collective responsibility.

Next Move
Ben-Gurion now is expected to form a new government without members of the two leftwing parties, Achduth Avodah and Mapam.

Earlier in the day Ben-Gurion sent the ultimatum to the four ministers saying that unless they quit by 6 p.m. he would hand in his resignation.

The four are Moshe Carmel and Israel Bar-Yehuda of the leftwing Achduth Avodah party and Ben-Zur and Mordechai Ben-Tov of the leftist Mapam party.

Ben-Gurion presented his ultimatum while the Cabinet met without him. He had refused to sit at the same table with the recalcitrant four ministers who last Wednesday voted in Parliament against the government's plan to sell 250,000 Israeli-made grenade throwers to West Germany.

The sale had been given Cabinet approval on a split vote. Opposition to the sale was generally based on hatred of Germany, because of the slaughter of Jews prior to and during World War II.

Ben-Gurion contended the sale was necessary for Israel's national defense. He failed to specify, however, whether he meant the arms deal involved a trade with West Germany which would send arms to Israel, or if the money realized from the sale would be used to purchase armaments elsewhere.

In announcing his ultimatum, Ben-Gurion sharply criticized the attitude of the Achduth Avodah and Mapam parties which, he said, had tried to form a new coalition without the participation of his own labor party.

He charged Achduth Avodah had tried to win the support of the rightwing Nationalist Heruth party. Other coalition parties reported to have been envisaged by the Achduth Avodah included the National Religious party.

Support
The Heruth party said it would support the government. The National Religious party reportedly rejected the proposal.

Ben-Gurion's party, the Social Democratic Mapai, has the largest representation in Parliament, but lacks a majority and therefore has to deal in coalitions to form governments.

For all but 2 of the 11 years the state of Israel has existed, Ben-Gurion has served as prime minister. He retired voluntarily in 1953 to Negev Desert home from 1953 to 1955 because of a dispute with his coalition cabinet.

There have been five occasions when he was either refused to support minority party demands or insisted they support actions he has approved but which they held violated their principles.

In each instance Ben-Gurion either resigned or let the objecting parties leave his cabinet. Each time he has gone to the public and won his case.

Two Parties Meet This Week

HARRISBURG (AP)—Democratic and Republican leaders of the House sit down this week in an effort to hammer out a compromise to Gov. Lawrence's stymied tax program.

Although the conferees are slated to meet Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, there was no indication whether they would come up with a solution before the Legislature reconvenes July 13th.

Call For Action

Crowe Opposes Train Plan

PRESIDENT OF POCONO Mountain Industries, Inc., Montgomery F. Crowe has termed the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad proposal to drop the two passenger trains "a disaster to all local people."

To his mind the Chamber of Commerce, the businessmen's associations and all other community groups concerned ought to voice a protest to Harrisburg and quickly do so.

"If the community doesn't protest, they will take it off. If enough protest is voiced, then perhaps something will come of it.

Crowe is planning to protest on behalf of the Pocono Mountains Industries.

He said that many businessmen who have interests in New York City would naturally be affected if the 8:45 a.m. train from Stroudsburg were discontinued.

Crowe sees this move on the part of the railroad as part-and-parcel to a lot of financial analysts which have predicted that planes will carry long distance passengers and the buses those traveling short distances.

Butler Raps Members Of Own Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler Sunday sharply criticized his own party's congressional leaders, saying they are steering a too conservative and moderate course.

Unless the Democratic Congress gets busy and progressive, he said, "we are going to be in a tough situation in 1960."

Hinting at a revolt within the party, Butler said "quite a few Democrats around the country are unhappy about the progress that has been made" in the current session of Congress.

"When the younger members of Congress go back to their districts this fall and are asked by the people about the record of accomplishment, they will return here in January in a fighting mood because they know they will have to have a solid record of accomplishment in order to win re-election," he added.

In criticizing his party's leadership in Congress in a filmed TV interview, Butler mentioned no names. His obvious targets were Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, also of Texas. They have stayed aloof from the Democratic Advisory Council which Butler heads.

National Point
Butler also said at one point that the views of Southern leaders in Congress do not represent the Democrats' national point of view.

"The congressional seniority system lends itself to the buildup of power and influence, control of committees by Southern Democrats, when the Democrats are in control of Congress," he added.

The Democratic chairman went on to say he had been trying "to make the party more responsible and more responsive to the needs and demands of the people, and this can only be done on a national basis."

"We believe we have to try to influence the Democratic leadership of the Congress to come along with the national program, rather than the conservative and moderate program which they are trying to follow," he said.

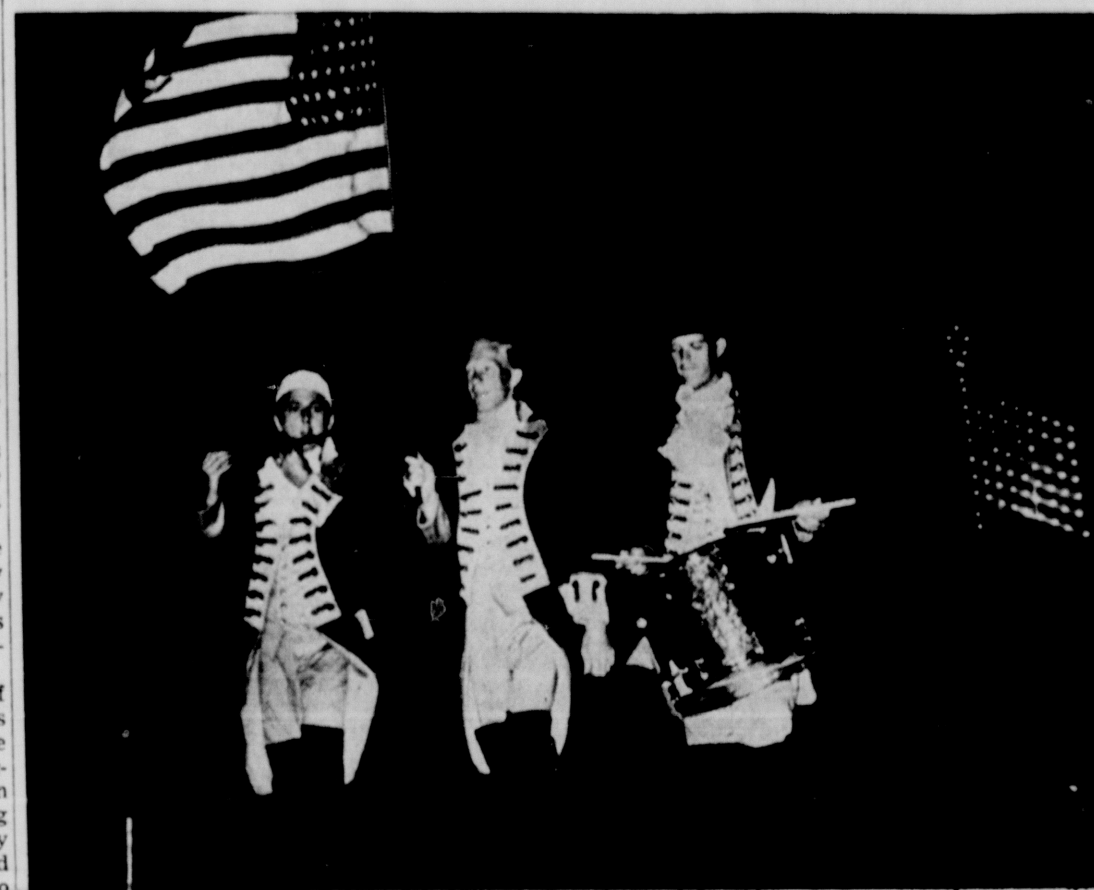

He aimed a barb at the recent strategy of the Democratic leaders in Congress in toning down some legislation to avoid a veto by President Eisenhower, saying: "I hope that we will be laying a bill upon the President's desk even though knowing in advance that he may veto it and letting it be known and then we will take the issue to the American people."

Queen To Visit In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II headed for the heart of America Sunday.

This big city, just 230 miles from the center of the nation's population, was ready to give her a big welcome.

Sunday morning, 24 hours in advance of her arrival, curious folks trickled down to the Lake Michigan shore to see the spot where a reigning monarch of Britain will set foot on Chicago's soil for the first time.

Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip and members of their party are scheduled to come ashore at 10 a.m. Monday to be greeted by Mayor Richard J. Daley, Gov. William G. Stratton and other members of a reception committee.

18 Persons Lose Lives In Pennsylvania Over Weekend

EIGHTEEN PERSONS LOST THEIR LIVES in accidents over the weekend in Pennsylvania. Eleven deaths occurred on the highways, two persons drowned, two were killed in an airplane crash and three died in other accidents.

The plane crash victims were Lamorne Johns, 38, and his wife, Lois, 42, of Westfield, N. J. Their craft crashed and burned on takeoff from the Williamsport-Leon County Airport in Montoursville.

Fritz F. Felder, 52, of Shaker Heights, Ohio, and his daughter, Flora, 15, were killed Saturday when the auto in which they were riding crashed into the rear of a tractor-trailer near the Carlisle Interchange on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Gordon Starnes, 18, of York, drowned Saturday while swimming in Otter Creek, a tributary of the Susquehanna River. Charles Kilpatrick, 38, of Dayton, in Armstrong County, lost his life while swimming Sunday in the Allegheny River north of Oil City.

Hay Wagon
Mrs. Ruth Hancock, 29, of Pottstown, was killed Friday night when she fell from a hay wagon and was crushed beneath the wheels on a farm in North Coventry Township.

Thomas Banks, 46, of Bloomsburg R.D. 3, was burned to death in a fire which wrecked his home Saturday.

John Hargett, 23, of Falls Church, Va., a racing car driver, was killed Saturday night in an accident at the Selingsgrove Speedway.

John Griffith, 12, of Pittsburgh, was killed by a trolley near his home, Franklin Pritts, 16, of Indian Head, was killed when his car overturned on a rural road near Connelville Saturday.

Holiday Extended
THURMONT, Md. (AP)—President Eisenhower decided Sunday to prolong his holiday stay at Camp David until today.

Injured
Injured were the three drivers and the following passengers: Rita Lmpn, 25, and Cicela Lmpn, 23, 15 Summit Ave., Summit Hill; Theima Snyder, 19, 310 E. Hazard St. Summit Hill and Burdell Wight, 21, Box 152 Lehighton.

Damage to the Volkswagen was estimated at $1700 and to the sedan at $800.

The injured were taken to the Wilkes-Barre and Monroe County general hospitals.

The exact extent of injuries weren't available at press time this morning.

Motor Vehicle Traffic Cause Of 234 Deaths

By The Associated Press
Traffic 234
Drownings 164
Miscellaneous 55
Total 453

TRAFFIC deaths piled up at a steady clip Sunday as fair weather lured millions of persons to the highways on their way to beaches and resorts this final day of the July Fourth weekend.

Death figures include totals as of 1 a.m. today.

The pleasant weather also shot the deaths by drowning above the 121 mark set in 1953, the only other two-day July Fourth observance since the end of World War II. The watery toll was far above the 101 recorded during the last two-day Memorial Day weekend.

The climbing traffic rate still was running slightly above the Memorial Day figures and led the National Safety Council to voice a note of cautious optimism.

"If the drivers and traffic enforcement agencies continue the good work, the toll will end substantially below our estimates and below the Memorial Day toll," the NSC said.

Warning
However, a council spokesman urged motorists to exert extreme care during the evening hours when frolicers began to return to their homes.

He said the mass of automobiles "could help create one of the greatest traffic jams in the nation's history."

The council spokesman estimated 45 million automobiles would travel some nine billion miles on the country's highways and byways. This would be five million autos and three billion miles more than usual on a nonholiday two-day summer weekend period, the spokesman said.

In the 54 hours between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Sunday, the NSC estimated 350 motorists and pedestrians would die in the heavy traffic.

This would exceed by 40 the 310 deaths counted over this year's Memorial Day weekend, also a Saturday-Sunday holiday.

By comparison, 240 persons died in traffic accidents in a 54-hour, nonholiday weekend of June 20-21, a survey by The Associated Press showed.

The last time July 4 fell on Saturday, in 1933, traffic deaths totaled 262.

Long Plans To Be At Office Today

WINFIELD, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long, pressed by his doctors to slow down, made a leisurely trip Sunday to his farm here. The politician in him got the better of the patient and he apparently paused for a little handshaking.

Long spent the night at Lake Providence, then took off again on the 110-mile journey to his home here.

When he was late in showing up, friends said he wouldn't be Earl Long if he hadn't stopped off here and there for a little handshaking and political fence mending.

When he finally arrived in mid-afternoon, Long declined to talk.

Remodeling
The house has undergone some remodeling since the governor's visit last weekend. It was moved back from the road about 20 feet and elevated slightly. The gas and water had been cut off and a small boy carried water to the house from an outside faucet after the governor arrived.

Dr. Paul Pratt, Long's attending physician, said the governor took a nap after arriving and probably would not meet with newsmen Sunday.

Long's plans call for him to be back in his office at the Baton Rouge capital Monday morning.

The 63-year-old governor defied his physicians Saturday when he undertook a 300-mile speechmaking trip to open his campaign for re-election.

In temperature that hit 98 degrees, the irrepressible Long made five appearances, telling his audiences: "I just wanted you to see for yourself what a nutty man looks like."

'The Daily Investor'

Be Certain Of Stocks

By William A. Doyle
International Investment
Analyst

William A. Doyle

Q. Over a year ago, I put $9,500 into the stocks of four different companies. I bought primarily for income, as I am 60 years old and am trying for added income when I retire. The stocks now have a market value of over $16,000. The dividend return is now at the annual rate of $760.

A broker advises me to sell out, taking my profit and reinvest in stocks which would give me a better yield. But I am in a fairly high income tax bracket and would have to pay 25 percent capital-gains tax on my profits. Wouldn't I be better off holding my present stock and buying additional stocks when I have money available?

A. Yes, you would be—providing that you are reasonably sure that the stocks you now hold are going to maintain their present dividends or maybe even increase them.

You are getting an eight percent return ($760 dividend by $9,500) on your original investment. That's good for money that has been at work for only somewhat more than a year.

However, based on the current yield is just shy of 4.6 percent. That's still good in these days of high-flying stock prices and relatively low dividends.

But, as an owner of stock in our taxdominated economy (some people call it tax damnation), your yield is actually higher for all practical purposes. If you sell all your stocks, take a profit of $7,100 and pay Uncle Sam 25 percent ($1,775) of that profit, you will have $14,825 left—less commissions.

In order just to stay even and collect $760 in dividends on that $14,825, you would have to invest it at better than a 5.1 percent yield.

That's not easy to get in common stocks that have any kind of safety. Did the broker have any suggestions? Or did it sound as if he might be interested in the commissions the transactions would generate for him?

However, we have looked at your investments as a whole. Each issue you hold should be considered separately. If you feel that the money you have in any one of the four could be put to better use elsewhere, you should consider switching. And, of course, continue to buy additional income-producing stocks.

Q. Is Safeway Stores a good investment? I bought this stock about two months ago for income and it is now quoted below what I paid for it.

A. Here's a specific case where a person bought stock for one purpose and becomes unhappy even though it fulfills that purpose.

If you bought Safeway for income, what are you worried about? Do you think that it won't continue to pay dividends at the $1.20 annual rate that it is presently committed to? Chances are that it will do at least that well.

Anyone who buys a stock for the dividends should never worry about short-term price swings.

Safeway, however, is thought of more as a growth stock than as a high-income producer. It has done well in the past and there's nothing on the horizon to indicate that it won't continue to do so in the future—on the long haul. Don't fret about what this—or any stock—does on a day-to-day, week-to-week or month-to-month basis.

Fire Causes Damage In Bushkill

BUSHKILL — The building housing the hot water heating system at the Bushkill Falls House, owned by Frank Pipher, was a complete loss after a fire early yesterday morning.

The Bushkill Fire Co. received the call at 1:20 a.m. There was only one injury before the firemen left at 4:15 a.m. A fireman, Richard Johnson, suffered slight burns of the left arm from flying sparks.

Twenty-five firemen responded to the fire which caused damages amounting to between eight and 10 thousand dollars.

Just In Time — According to fire chief Lawrence DePue, if the firemen had arrived three to five minutes later the entire north end of the resort would have burned.

Actual cause of the fire is being investigated but it is thought to have been caused by an overworked furnace, DePue said.

Bangor Residents, One From Nazareth Held For Fall Term Of Northampton Court

TWO Bangor and one Nazareth man rounded up last week in connection with a four-county burglary and holdup ring pleaded guilty to all the charges brought against them before an Allentown alderman Friday morning.

James Carlton Heisey, 24, of 15 S. Main St., and Duane R. Rice, 19, of 615 Snyder St., of Bangor, and Nicholas A. Cascario, 23, of 28 S. Broad St., Nazareth, pleaded guilty to two counts of armed holdup and three counts of burglary in Lehigh County.

Alderman Richard C. Snyder said bail was set at $6,500 for Cascario, at $5,500 for Heisey and at $1,000 for Rice. All three were held for the Fall term of court.

Allentown police have charged Heisey and Cascario with armed robbery of the Spur Gas Station, Lehigh and Mill Sts., on Jan. 30, 1958, which netted them $80.

All three have been charged by Trooper Joseph Poluka of the state police at Bethlehem with $65 holdup last Oct. 1, of an Atlantic service station at Cedar Crest Blvd. and Tilghman St., South Whitehall Township.

Sgt. Harold Schaefer of the Trexlertown substation filed charges against Heisey and Cascario for three burglaries on May 22, 1958.

Schaefer said the two have admitted entering Walt's Esso Station on Route 22 at Breinigsville; Sunset Diner, next to the service station, and the Checkerboard Restaurant at Wescosville.

The three burglaries netted the men a total of $172 and a typewriter, Schaefer said.

Heisey, Rice, Cascario, Irvin Fortner, 23, of Harmony, N.J., and Michael Calazzo 17, of East Bangor, are all being held in Northampton County Prison in default of bail. They are charged with a string of 65 burglaries and holdups in Northampton, Bucks and Warren Counties.

wide range of reporting of local, state national and world affairs, as well as city editor, editor of a weekly, and enlisted Navy correspondent in World War Two.

In the 10 years of Scott's Washington reporting, he has covered major national, international and political affairs, including the 1952 and 1956 conventions of both political parties.

Grammar School

Allen, who is 59, started reporting local news while in grammar school in Latonia, Ky., and enlisted in the Sixth U. S. Cavalry when he was 16. He served overseas in World War One and in 1920, began working his way through college as a reporter.

He became a National Guard and Reserve Officer until World War Two, when he was named chief of combat intelligence on Gen. Patton's staff. During the fierce fighting in the Thuringen Corridor in Western Germany, Allen was leading a special mission behind enemy lines when he was wounded in a close-fire fight, taken prisoner and lost his right arm.

In 1932, Allen and Drew Pearson started a syndicated column, "Washington Merry-Go-Round", and in a short time they attained top recognition as reporters of the national scene. They collaborated until Allen was recalled to active duty in the Army Reserve in World War Two.

For the first column under the new name, "The Allen-Scott Report", turn to Page Four of today's Daily Record, and follow it daily for exclusive news on national and international developments.

'Happiness' Theme Of Assembly

WESCOVILLE—"A husband and wife who would live together happily must play together humbly," Dr. Charles B. Hirsch, president of Washington Missionary College, told the weekend assembly of nearly 3,000 worshippers attending the 49th annual state-wide convocation of Seventh-Day Adventists being held near Wescosville.

Addressing delegates from all sections of eastern Pennsylvania and the neighboring four state area of New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, the Washington, D. C., College prexy called the morning and night devotions "an essential to successful family living." He urged the active participation of father, mother and children in family prayers and reading of the Bible.

Basis

"The basis for national prosperity and world peace lies in the home," Dr. Hirsch, who heads up the church's regional college, declared. "A man or woman can reach no higher achievement than to build a happy and successful home, and to do that, God must be the Master Builder." "Except the Lord build the home, they labor in vain that build it," the Psalmist wrote.

The speaker urged the young people in his congregation "to seek the guidance of God and the advice of your parents in choosing a marriage partner."

Russian Display Held Independence Day

By Harlan Stone
I CELEBRATED the 183rd birthday of my country Saturday by going to the Soviet Exhibition of Science, Technology and Culture at the New York City Coliseum. So did several thousand other people.

We didn't do this out of disloyalty, but curiosity. We wanted to see what the country which is threatening ours has to offer.

We saw a replica of the nose cone which carried the first dog into outer space, heard a hi-fi recording of a Russian opera and saw a scale model of a modern-day mass-produced Russian apartment house.

Two floors of $10 million worth of Russian effort contained displays on science, radio, agriculture, optics, buildings, public health, education, culture, sports and public welfare—the last category meaning all those unessentials like glassware, bonecarved figurines, fabrics with gaudy colors and perfumes. Along side all the display cases and on all the pillars throughout the Coliseum were slogans such as:

"We will forge swords into ploughshares."

"Tuition is free at all educational establishments." "All nations can see that the USSR plans are plans of peaceful construction."

The first floor of the exhibition, devoted entirely to science and technology, is impressive. It is only on the second floor where the more spiritual aspects of Soviet life are depicted that one is reassured that the Russians, too, have things to catch up on.

The first things we saw were scale models of the first Sputnik launched around the earth, the last stage of the cosmic rocket propelled toward the moon, the dog chamber and a small replica of the TU-114 turbo-jet passenger plane which landed in New York last week.

There were intricate table models of an offshore oil field structure on the Caspian Sea and the entire layout for the shops of an iron and steel works and a synthetic rubber manufacturing plant.

One aisle over where several gigantic farm machines and a table model of a collective farm town before collectivization in 1917 and afterwards in 1959. Collectivization has done wonders to the appearance of the spot, according to the model.

Where all the Russian radios, underwater television sets, computers and electronics equipment lined up, an American was discussing formulas with two Russians. They spoke English well.

Upstairs a model for a 1,000 pupil school, a 4,000 person cinema with a wide angle screen and various kinds of public housing buildings were laid out. A large poster on the wall explained that there was standardization of structural elements (55 in number) for all public buildings. The two-room apartments in the models looked pretty small.

A life-size replica of a typical Russian apartment was full of thin, rickety-looking laquered furniture made in an inexpensive international style.

An attractive Russian girl in the public health display maintained there was very little of a mental health problem in the Soviet Union. "Our children are better brought up," she said. "We don't let them see all those horrible movies you have, and we don't let them smoke when they are young. We have health programs in the schools."

Nearby were pictures of a dog who had had his amputated hind leg successfully transplanted back onto his body.

The Soviet art was the expected display of genre subjects in the social realistic style which has been officially endorsed by the Kremlin. The pictures with their melodramatic overtones and misty rose-colored backgrounds looked like the high Victorian art popular here at the turn of the century. There was a scene of the last days of Hitler's staff with all the German officers looking like fear-crazed drunks.

Another picture showed three Olympian figures dressed in laborers' clothes. It was called "Subway Tunnelers." The inevitable blurb on the wall nearby said "From the life of nomads to the heights of culture."

The book display indicated that our own Mark Twain is as widely read in Russia as Victor Hugo, George Bernard Shaw, Cervantes, Goethe, Shakespeare and Dante.

In the food department a refrigerator less than four feet high stood almost surrounded from view by canned fish, pastries and other delicacies.

Of the five Russian cars which revolved on turn-tables, the largest had a front grill so thin that it wiggled between the fingers of the curious Americans.

In one of the most colorful sights were the mannequins dressed in the latest Soviet styles for dresses, suits and fur coats. The suits looked considerably better, however, than those I saw on the Russian exhibitors, all of whom were having a hard time answering a deluge of questions.

As I walked toward the front door I leafed through some of the suggestion books. Here are some of the comments:

"I think this exhibition is wonderful and I hope it will go far toward bringing our two countries closer together."

"This is a great step toward international peace."

"Why don't the refreshment stands sell Russian food?"

"You have sent the most beautiful things into the United States for the exhibition, and I firmly believe these things were made by slaves in your slave camps."

"Where are your churches with your other model building models?"

"Stop the persecution of the Jewish religion and culture."

The exhibition is the Soviet Union's first such show in the United States since the New York World's Fair in 1939-1940. It was organized under an agreement on exchanges signed Jan. 27, 1958. The United States will open a similar exhibition in Moscow July 25.

The Russian show is open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sundays. The exhibition will end in August.

ACCIDENT—Clinton Gearhart, 25, of Delaware Water Gap, drove this car off Alternate Route 611 at the point of the gap early Friday morning, but was reported in good condition last night, although the car was described as a loss. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Automobile Crashes From Highway At Point-Of-Gap

CLINTON Gearhart, 25, of Delaware Water Gap, was reported in good condition at Monroe County General Hospital last night.

He missed a turn at the "Point-of-the-Gap" on alternate Route 611 at 2:30 a.m. and demolished his car.

Delaware Water Gap borough Police Chief Fred Decker said Gearhart was traveling south toward Portland when his car jumped the curb, ran around the end of a retaining wall and crashed onto the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway right-of-way.

The car was pulled back onto the road by a wrecker and Gearhart was taken to the hospital with head, left leg and right shoulder injuries, Decker said.

The car and the rear side of Shloman's were slightly damaged.

Police said Rose N. Miller, 19, of 97 Oak St., was going west on E. Brown St. before she turned north onto Bridge St. and struck a car driven by Harry A. Sheldon, 57, of 151 Barnum St. Time of the accident was 8:30 p.m.

Congressman John E. Moss, chairman of the Government Information Subcommittee of the House, says federal executives have become so despotic in the exercise of what they claim to be their privilege of secrecy that essential information about the operations of government agencies is being withheld from Congress itself.

He says the policy of "executive privilege" is being employed as a curtain to cover up questionable financial transactions in some departments and "even to hide scandals in high government offices."

His committee is moving boldly against this dangerous instrument. The Hardy amendments to the Mutual Security Act, adopted unanimously by the House, strike directly at the heart of the claim of "executive privilege."

They spell out the fact that nothing can be withheld from Congress - not evaluation reports, not internal communications, not recommendations.

All the information which the Internal Cooperation Administration has, or which the proposed Office of Inspector General and Comptroller in the ICA may gather, will be available to Congress and its auditors in the General Accounting Office.

This is as it should be. Consequently, we hope the Senate concurs with the House on these amendments to the end that "executive privilege" will be effectively curbed.

Unnecessary Choice

Which should come first—reduction of the public debt or tax cuts?

The question may seem hypothetical at the moment, since there is no certainty there will be any Federal budget surplus in this new fiscal year to make possible either action.

But it is not an entirely idle question, because the effort must be made to achieve both objectives, and with a reasonable amount of determination in Washington at least one of them could be achieved this year.

The President and his financial advisers in recent weeks have been urging that something must be paid on the debt this year; at his press conference the other day Mr. Eisenhower said that should be a major goal.

If a choice must be made, we think they are right. Tax cuts are unquestionably needed, not only as a matter of equity but for the sake of future economic growth, but the more pressing need is to check inflationary pressures, of which the expanding debt is a potent one.

The debt is now around $285 billion, higher than ever before in war or peace, and the legal debt limit has just been temporarily raised to $295 billion.

These facts alone should be shocking; in addition, the attempt to manage a debt of this magnitude is giving the Treasury staggering problems, and to a large extent it is forced to do its financing through inflationary means. Moreover, a sizable reduction of the debt would also be a reduction of Federal spending, for interest on the debt now amounts to some 10% of all Government outlays.

Debt retirement would also, we suspect, have a salutary psychological effect in the struggle against inflation. It would be a sign that the Government was at last actually doing something to try to preserve what is left of the value of the dollar.

When all that is said, though, it remains a rather bitter reflection on our times that men should talk of a choice between such sound alternatives as tax reduction and debt reduction. If the Government had been running surpluses as it should have throughout these generally very prosperous postwar years, that would be wholly unnecessary.

The Pennsylvania Story

Church Groups Split

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill—of all places—may well become a battleground of church forces of the Keystone State.

Through the years the so-called "church group" lobby has been largely a loose-jointed, "non-competitive," rambling affair, headed by Rev. Melvin M. Forney, of the Lord's Day Alliance.

Largely for lack of any other "organized" spokesman for the church groups, Rev. Forney generally has been viewed by Pennsylvania's lawmakers as at least the quasi-reflector of feelings of many of Pennsylvania's church groups.

But interestingly—Pennsylvania may well see another "spokesman" for the so-called "church group" emerge as battle lines are drawn over a politically bipartisan piece of legislation introduced last week in the House of Representatives.

The bill—HB 1971—carries the sponsorship of Representatives James J. Dougherty (D-Phila.); John Kee (R-Phila.); and Walter T. Kamyk (D-Allegheny).

It provides for the sale of liquor in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh hotels on Sunday between the hours of 1 p.m. and 10 p.m., provided it is so voted by referendum of voters in both cities.

Surprisingly perhaps, the hotelmen have been pledged strong support from another clergyman, Rev. William Vaughn Ischle, Jr., rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Philadelphia.

Joining Rev. Ischle are a number of liberal clergymen who feel that if hotels are required by law to stay open seven days a week to provide a "home away from home" for travelers, they should provide the guest all the same privileges that he enjoys on his own hearth.

With unemployment a problem in Philadelphia, proponents of the bill point to the number of jobs this legislation will create, if passed.

And, they say, another benefit to the city and state will be the increase in tax revenues from the free spending visitors who now steer more than $9,000,000 worth of convention business away from the state because of "Blue Laws."

However, there are those who point out that the Forney forces still are potent on Capitol Hill as is evidenced by the "dry" policy decisions on various state agency outings, picnics and what-nots.

Father Ischle charges that the people of Pennsylvania and particularly legislators are being victimized by reform lobbyists who "represent only a fraction of the church people in the State."

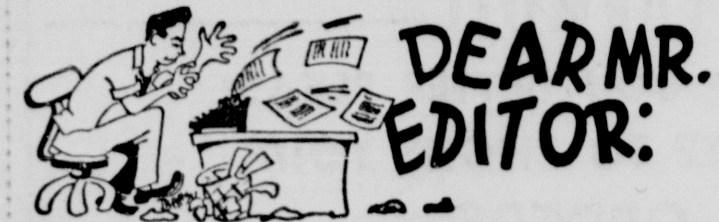

"Implied threats of organized reprisals at the polls, as contained in Mr. Forney's literature, hardly contribute to the intelligent consideration of legislation affecting the general populace," Father Ischle declared.

Apparently, Father Ischle has scored some telling blows on the Forney forces as they admit in a recent newsletter: "We do not intend to answer any of those who attack us. This would be futile." Instead, they claim they are going to work harder to "expand our program."

Another chink in the myth of invincibility that has grown around Rev. Forney through the years perhaps can be found in the fact that he failed to appear on a Philadelphia radio program to answer charges by Rev. Ischle after accepting an invitation to review the issues at hand.

While Rev. Ischle has perhaps won some of the early rounds and seems to be picking up strength as he goes along, Rev. Forney's still a powerful factor to be reckoned with.

Only time will tell whether the liberal or conservative minister will be looked upon as the "official spokesman" for the church group in the future.

Getting Nowhere Fast

Abigail Van Buren

Two Sides To Problem

Dear Abby: I have a wonderful wife and six fine kids but my wife talks on the telephone all day and in the evenings when I come home she starts doing her washing, ironing and housework. She never sits down and watches TV with me because she is so busy doing other things. She even does canning at night and our deep freeze is full.

At night she falls into bed and is so tired she turns on her side and goes to sleep. I am about to crack up. She went to the doctor and he told her she was good for a hundred years yet I make good money but I am lonesome.

GETTING GREY

Dear Abby: There is a reason why your wife knocks herself out all evening and falls into bed exhausted. It furnishes her with an excuse for avoiding you. Get to the bottom of it by talking it over with her. The fault could be yours.

Dear Abby: Only God (and now you) knows how I have prayed and wept because of what I have found out recently.

The man I took to be my adored husband sixteen years ago has been molesting our little girls who are 6 and 8. I can't tell you how this has torn me apart. I do not want a broken home, yet I cannot tolerate this. Please, Abby, can you or anyone else help me?

BROKEN-HEARTED

Dear Broken-Hearted: Your husband is a sick man. Before the day is over, call your family doctor and he will tell you exactly what to do.

Dear Abby: Please tell this little story to the woman who complained because her husband never called her mother "Mom."

"Someone asked my mother-in-law what her daughters-in-law and sons-in-law called her. She said, 'The first year they called me "Mrs. McGuire" — and after that they call me "Grandma."'

VELMA

Dear Abby: I had been invited to dinner and brought my hostess a layer cake of which she is inordinately fond. Recently I was again invited to her home for dinner but this time she asked me to bring the very same cake, saying she'd pay for it! I was shocked. Not wishing to offend her, I obliged, but she did not offer to pay me. (Had she, I would have refused the money.) Should this occur again is there a retort with which I could courteously decline her suggestion? I do not like to be told what to bring.

OFFENDED

Dear Offended: If she invites you again and suggests you bring that same layer cake, tell her you are quite bored with making that same old cake and intend to "surprise" her with something different. Then surprise her.

Dear Abby: I am helping my niece with her wedding plans and we disagree on one thing. She says the kiss belongs in the ceremony and has religious significance. I say it would be more dignified to leave it out. What do you think?

DIGNIFIED

Dear Dignified: Ask your clergymen. Religious ceremonies differ. A wedding kiss is always in good taste. If your niece wants it, it's her wedding.

Dear Abby: I have a wonderful husband and four wonderful children. I have a beautiful home and everything a wife could ask for. My husband is almost perfect but he has one bad habit. Every other word he says is a curse word. No matter who is present. Children, adults, his parents or mine. It must be a habit but, Abby, how do you break a man of habit like that? I would give anything if I could do it. The children are beginning to pick it up.

MRS. A. E. B.

Dear Mrs. A. E. B.: The longest march in the world starts with one step. Warn him that you are going to call his attention to every "curse word" he says as soon as he says it. And then do just that. Good luck!

Dear Abby: I am eleven years old. I am a boy. Our whole class took pictures at school. Mine came out terrible. I look like there is a fly on my lip. Anyway that is not my problem as the pictures didn't cost but fifty cents. There is this silly girl who goes around telling everybody she is my girl. She is always kissing on my picture. I didn't give her my picture. She traded a boy for it and gave him a dime. How can I stop this silly girl from kissing on my picture?

JULIUS

Dear Julius: You can't stop her from kissing on your picture but pretend you don't notice it and she might stop. Girls can be awfully silly the first eleven years. Pretty soon it will be your turn.

The Headliners

The most fascinating people in the world are human beings. And much of their fascination is derived from the development of their destinies. . . . Ingemar Johansson was a poor student. As a result, teachers frequently punished him by slapping his face or hitting his hands with a stick. Johansson seems to recall the punishment vividly. As he recently told a Satepost interviewer: "They had a stick and hit you sometimes on the hand, you know, when you were very bad. When somebody should do that I couldn't stand it. When I know that a teacher should hit me I always draw by hand away."

Johansson was forced to leave school when he was 15. In a way, the man who won the heavyweight championship of the world was also a boy—winning a victory over his teachers.

Not all beloved human beings are famous people. And not all famous people are beloved human beings. Happily, Marnie and Ike are both—they love and are loved. Last week, they celebrated their third wedding anniversary. . . . The First Lady once noted the secret of her marital success: "I told my husband right after we were married, 'You run the office and I'll run the house.' And I still think that's how it should be."

In other words, Marnie is the First Lady—but she is a wife first.

Success is generally a lengthy and arduous process. And sometimes it happens like this. . . . Lee Remick was lunching in Sardi's when he was asked to appear in a play. As a result of the Broadway play she won a teevie role. On teevie she was spotted by Ella Kazan who handed her a part in "A Face in the Crowd" film. As a result of her elixir in that, she won a major role in "The Long, Hot Summer." And now she is one of the stars in "Anatomy of a Murder."

Oscar Levant, it is reported, is ailing again. Life has always had its problems for Oscar. When a friend once remarked: "Oscar, you sound happy." Levant shrugged: "I'm not myself today." . . . For about a decade he depended on the generosity of his friends. "I was a penthouse beachcomber," he says. . . . One night he was telling Ira Gershwin about his debts, his insecurity, the humiliation of borrowing money—when Gershwin interrupted with: "How long can you go on like this, Oscar?" Levant promptly responded: "Another ten years."

Letter Written To Businessmen

A letter was read at Thursday night's meeting of the East Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn.

The person who wrote the letter remained a secret. But, the ideas contained might be worth digesting, at least in part.

The letter was believed so good by some of the merchants that it was read openly at the meeting.

The writer made it plain that he or she is a resident of East Stroudsburg and very proud of the borough.

But, this person called on the merchants to make improvements to the shopping center. The writer urged remodeling of stores and improvements to property that would make East Stroudsburg known for its shopping district.

The letter presented several suggestions and called for a "new look."

The envelope also contained a newspaper clipping which told the story of Excelsior, Minn., and the success of its shopping center.

According to the story Excelsior was faced with a failing shopping area. But, the merchants of the town got together and turned Excelsior into one of the finest small town shopping districts in all of Minnesota and maybe of the United States.

I think, like many of the merchants present at the meeting, that the letter actually has merit and is certainly worth study.

The Allen-Scott Report

Promotions Dropped

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington—Senator Margaret Chase Smith has done it again!

For the third successive year the determination of the independent Maine Republican, who recently made headlines with her surprise vote against former Commerce Secretary Strauss, has blocked persistent Air Force efforts to make movie actor James Stewart a reserve brigadier general.

President Eisenhower will shortly recall the promotion list he sent to Congress last Winter recommending Stewart and 12 other reservists for stars—seven colonels to be brigadiers and five brigadiers to be major generals.

Among the former is Senator Barry Goldwater (R., Ariz.), who hotly resented Mrs. Smith's opposition to Strauss' confirmation.

Withdrawal of these 13 names will mean the end of any hope to win approval for their promotion at this session of Congress. Whether another attempt will be made next year remains to be seen. Undoubtedly some of these reservists will be recommended again.

Whether Stewart will be is questionable. This is his third straight rebuff. In 1957 and 1958 his promotion was left "hanging on the vine" of the Armed Services Committee, of which Senator Smith is a ranking GOP member.

The President's back-stage decision to drop the Air Force's controversial promotion list has been conveyed to leaders of the Senate Armed Services Committee by Major General William Fisher, in charge of liaison with Congress.

Private reason for this given by him is that the Air Force did not want to engage in an open clash with Mrs. Smith.

The carefully not mentioned factor behind this controlling reluctance is a 200-item questionnaire which Mrs. Smith submitted to the Air Force in April regarding the qualifications of Stewart and some of the others to be generals—and which is still unanswered.

From intimations dropped by General Fisher, it is unlikely the Air Force ever will reply to Mrs. Smith's disconcerting questionnaire.

Congressional Quiz

Constitutional Amendment

By Congressional Quarterly

The Senate Judiciary Committee recently approved a constitutional amendment guaranteeing women equal rights with men. What do you know about constitutional amendments and the procedures by which they are put into effect? Try for four correct answers.

1. Q—Fill in the blanks. A constitutional amendment must be approved by—of the members of each chamber of Congress and—of the states.

A—Two-thirds and three-fourths.

2. Q—In testimony before Congressional committees witnesses have frequently invoked the Fifth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. What right are they invoking?

A—The guarantee that a person shall not be compelled to testify against himself in a criminal case. The courts have interpreted this to include testimony before Congressional committees that could lead to criminal prosecution.

3. Q—True or false: After an amendment is approved by three-fourths of the states it must be signed by the President?

A—False. Once Congress and three-fourths of the states have approved the amendment, it automatically becomes part of the Constitution.

4. Q—The 1954 Supreme Court decision involving segregation in schools centered about the 14th Amendment. Does this amendment say (a) born or naturalized citizens of the United States are also citizens of the states in which they live; (b) no state shall abridge the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States; (c) no state shall deny a person equal protection of the laws?

A—All three.

5. Q—Only one amendment has ever been repealed. What did it involve?

A—Prohibition. The 18th Amendment prohibited the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. It was repealed by the 21st Amendment.

6. Q—President Franklin D. Roosevelt was the first President to serve under the "lame duck" amendment. Did this amendment involve (a) the number of terms a President may serve; (b) the inauguration date of the President?

A—(b). The "lame duck" amendment, among other things, specified that the President was to be inaugurated Jan. 20, new Members of Congress to begin their terms Jan. 3 and Congress to convene Jan. 3. Previously, Congress convened in December but new Members were not inaugurated until the following March; consequently, Congressmen defeated in a November election nevertheless sat from the following December until March. Such Members were called "lame ducks."

7. Q—President Eisenhower is the first President subject to the most recent amendment, the 22nd. What does this amendment involve?

A—The 22nd Amendment limits a President to two terms in office. Previously he had been allowed to serve indefinitely provided he could be reelected each four years. However, Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected four times (1932-44), was the only President to serve more than two terms. The amendment was added after Roosevelt's death.

this wariness is the blune nature of Mrs. Smith's questions.

For example: In one of them she asks the Air Force, in effect, "Is the Colonel better qualified for this assignment (which carries the promotion with it) than the Brigadier General he would replace? If not, why is the change being made?"

Mrs. Smith has good reason to challenge Stewart's qualifications for this promotion. In 1957 and 1958, she blushed that he did not measure up to the requirements for general officer rank. She did this on the basis of the Air Force's own records of his reserve duty.

Instead of serving a minimum of 15 days active duty, the Hollywood star put in only eight days.

To her inquiries about this, Senator Smith was informed that Stewart had been unable to complete the minimum because of "press of business." Later Mrs. Smith ascertained that the movie actor's urgent activities had not prevented him from spending several months big game hunting in India.

Another discrepancy uncovered by Mrs. Smith was Stewart's rating as a combat jet pilot.

Air Force records disclosed that the last time he had been checked out in a jet combat plane was on July 8, 1958. Under AF regulations that is not recent enough to meet promotion qualifications.

Other jolting items in Senator Smith's questionnaire are: Reason for the proposed one-star promotion of a General Electric Official, who retired from the Air Force to take this high-paying job?

The basis for another proposed brigadier who never had a day of combat service? A reservist for 20 years in another service he transferred to the Air Force, soon rose to colonel, and it is now proposed to make him a brigadier over the heads of numerous combat-decorated veterans who meet the qualifications for general officer.

In Mrs. Smith's latest tangle with the Air Force over these promotions, she has had the backing of two committee colleagues who are reserve pilots qualified to fly jets—Senators Clair Engle (D., Cal.) and Howard Cannon (D., Nev.).

Also the reserve officers association has formally commended her for battling for promotion based on merit.

Latin Flashes—There is increasing likelihood that the Pan-American conference slated for next February in Ecuador will be shifted to another country. Reason is the strong possibility of Communist disturbances in Ecuador in the event the parley is held there. Intelligence has definite information the Reds already are planning such demonstrations. . . . Brazil's Foreign Minister, Negrao de Lima, has accepted an invitation to make an official visit to Israel. The invitation was extended by Mrs. Golda Meyer, Israel Foreign Minister.

Two Cars Collide In Stroudsburg

A 65-YEAR-OLD Stroudsburg woman learning to drive ran into another car on the Fifth St. bridge yesterday morning. No one was injured.

Stroudsburg police gave this story:

Thomas E. Mariz, Box 26, Stroudsburg R.D. 1, was out teaching his wife Mary to drive. Equipped with a learner's permit, she was proceeding east along Ann St., Stroudsburg.

She told police the light at Ann and Broad St. was green until just before she reached it. Not having time to stop, she continued on, made a right hand turn onto the bridge at the foot of Broad St., and struck a car driven by Kenneth Stevens, of 217 Colbert St., Stroudsburg.

Stevens was taking his wife, Evelyn, and his children Susan, 11, Edward, 7 and Am-Jo, 3 to Sunday School. Damage to the front of his car was estimated at $125. Damage to the Mariz car amounted to $75, police said. Police are still investigating.

Stroudsburg's Reserve Unit Activated In Ceremonies Featured At Indiantown Gap

STROUDSBURG'S Troop "B" was formally activated in Friday's ceremonies at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation along with the rest of the Third Reconnaissance Squadron, 9th Cavalry, 79th Infantry Division, United States Army Reserve.

With the recent re-organization of the 79th Inf. Div., the local unit has been modernized and streamlined to fulfill its mission as "the eyes and ears of the Division Commander."

The ceremony on Muir Field Friday included a reading of the history of the Ninth Cavalry, the parent unit of the Third Reconnaissance Squadron. Major General James C. Frank presented the colors and reviewed the squadron. The squadron was organized July 28, 1866. It saw its first action against Comanche Indians during the Indian Wars in the West.

Later campaigns included fighting in the Spanish-American War, the Philippine Insurrection and the North African campaign during the Second World War.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

One of the most aggravating remarks which children can make to their parents is a cool "All right, make like a martyr if you want," particularly when that's exactly what you have been doing.

"Run right along and have your swim," you say with an aggrieved look. "Somebody's got to stay home and clean up this mess." Or, sharply, "If you knew how long it takes me to press those trousers, you wouldn't just step out of them and leave them in a heap in the middle of the floor!" It isn't the words, it's the music that's sour. Either everybody could stay home and help or you could leave the "mess" until you came back. If a boy doesn't hang up his trousers, he can jolly well wear them mused or go without them at all. But it's infuriating to have them point out that you're making your own martyrdom.

And even more infuriating when you make like a martyr for nobody's benefit but your own—and realize it. Nobody said I had to spend a beautiful holiday weekend ironing and doing those dreary chores there's never time for in a work-a-day week.

That I chose to do so was my own fault. And if I'd accomplished what I set out to do, it might have been an honest martyrdom. But to spend so much time feeling sorry for myself that there was little constructive work done at all is insulting even to my own capacity for rationalization.

Next weekend I spend watching television, reading old magazines and looking out the window. It will be because that's what I want to do; not an excuse for not working.

The Baby's Named!

THE DAILY RECORD congratulates the parents and introduces to its readers the following new babies:

Deborah Susan Adams—The second child born to Betty and Gary Adams of 908 1/2 Main Street, Stroudsburg. She was born at the Eastern Hospital on June 26, weighing eight pounds 12 and one-half ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Stout

Bonnita Jean Renninger Bride Of William Stout

Bonnita Jean Renninger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Renninger of 106 Linden St., Stroudsburg, was married in St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg, to William H. Stout, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Stout of Stroudsburg RD 2.

Rev. Charles Ruloff and Rev. M. Luther Wahman of Palmyra performed the ceremony on June 14 at 2:30 p.m. with Mrs. Ralph Bender as organist and Mrs. Robert Wolbert as soloist. She sang, "The Lord's Prayer," "O Perfect Love" and "Oh Lord Most Holy." Floral background for the wedding were bouquets of snapdragons on the altar and gladiolas and palms in the chancel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported lace with a scalloped Sabrina neckline embroidered with sequins. The skirt of misty tulle was drifted with lace appliques. An orange blossom tiara held her illusion veil and she carried a prayer book with a white orchid and baby's breath and streamers.

Miss Jacquelyn Renninger, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. She wore a dress of pink lace in a ballerina-length with a scoop neckline and rises cascading over the skirt. She wore a sequin tiara with side clips and carried a colonial bouquet of assorted flowers.

Her bridesmaids were Mrs. William Pensyl and Miss Patricia Shaw, both of Stroudsburg.

They also wore pink ballerina length gowns in the same style with roses cascading over their streets. Their half-clip headpieces were trimmed with lily buds and they carried colonial bouquets of pastel flowers.

Fred Stout was his brother's best man, Usher were Paul Volkme of Philadelphia and Robert Motts of Brodheadsville. A reception was held at the Elk's Home for 250 guests following the ceremony. The reception hall was decorated with pink and white streamers with white beilles over the bridal table and over the buffet table. There was both square and round dancing to the music of a band formed by Harold Stout, uncle of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a sheath dress of peacock blue chiffon with pink accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of beige nylon with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bride's grandmother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The newlyweds went to Atlantic City for their honeymoon and are now making their home at Brodheadsville. Following the bride wore a pastel blue sheath print dress with pink accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in the class of 1956 and is employed by her father at the West End Market, Stroudsburg. Mr. Stout also attended Stroudsburg High School, served four years with the U. S. Navy, and is now employed by his father, Forrest Stout, Plumbing and Heating, Stroudsburg, RD 2.

John Frederick Brush Jr.—Mr. and Mrs. John F. Brush, East Stroudsburg RD 2, have named their first child John Frederick Brush Jr. He was born June 30 at the General Hospital and weighed seven pounds, five ounces.

Mrs. Brush is the former Marjorie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Smith Jr., Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Ludwig, East Stroudsburg RD 3.

Brian Wesley Akers—Their first child, a son, was born to R. Gordon Akers on July 1 at the General Hospital. He weighed six pounds, 13 ounces and has been named Brian Wesley.

Mrs. Akers is the former Kay L. Bush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bush, Stroudsburg, RD 4. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Akers, Delaware Water Gap.

Robert Tomans Klinger Jr.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Klinger of 428 Hawthorne Terrace, Stroudsburg, announce the birth of a son on July 1 at the General Hospital. He weighed seven pounds, two ounces and has been named Robert Tomans Klinger Jr. They have a daughter, Tina Marie, a year and a half old.

Mrs. Klinger is the former Marie Robinson. Grandmothers are Mrs. Mildred Klinger, 344 Race St., East Stroudsburg and Mrs. Helen Visser, 603 Christina Place, Paterson, N. J.

Daily Record Press Card Gets Scout Correspondent Facts On Minor Train Fire

(Special to The Daily Record from Monroe County Girl Scouts on National Roundup)

On the Train, June 30. Please thank all those who were at the station to see us off. We were all excited, and after a slight wait were soon "happy on the way." We found our seats and settled right in. Most of the girls changed into more comfortable clothes. Everyone is so friendly here, and we all feel at home.

Our lunch was uneventful but the afternoon proved more exciting. We met some girls from Scranton and Elmira that some of us had met at camp. After about an hour's reminiscing, we discovered a fire!

The train stopped out in the middle of nowhere and the smoke poured out of the first car. Rumors flew like wildfire: car one was on fire and car two was red hot!

But my press card and I got the details. Due to spontaneous combustion, the canvas between lights on the train went out as early as they did last night because we all found out how difficult it is to sleep in a reclining train seat. It took most of us until 2 a.m. to get any resemblance of comfort.

Of course I would fall asleep, discomfort and all, and from what I am told I missed all the fun. The train seats were built so that they turned around, making everything helter-skelter. Besides two people really can't fit into one seat.

Two of the girls from our car found seclusion and peace on the floor of the ladies rest room. Sylvia and Barbara found the luggage racks above the seats a little chilly. By 2 a.m. Sylvia and I joined Jennet in sleeping on the floor between the seats, so that Dee-Dee (Ruth), Gail, Faith and Sue had the seats all to themselves, but even that wasn't comfortable!

Tonight I think we will also be so tired that we'll fall asleep sitting up.

Our morning started bright and early at 5 a.m. when somebody got the brilliant idea we should get up, thinking it was 6 a.m. and we were due in Chicago that morning. Our train being late from the beginning, got us into Chicago at 9:30 a.m. After another hour's wait, we finally ate in the railroad station restaurant.

Our morning tour took us to the Museum of Science and Industry where we were fascinated by being on color television, all sorts of gadgets we could fool around with on the new telephones, and seeing baby chickens hatch and many other items of interest.

Our first delicious meal was our luncheon at the Midland Hotel. We had to split up our patrol since we were late again. I think this is becoming our middle name.

Our afternoon tour included a shopping spree in Chinatown. On the way back to the station we passed Lake Michigan and stopped to take pictures.

When the train pulled out of the station at 3:45 p.m. we were all happy to be back "home," weary and tired from our extra long day.

We are now speeding, non-stop, to Colorado Springs where we will arrive early tomorrow morning.

Little Sleep On This Scour—Wednesday, July 1 (enroute) Hello, Friends! It was good the cars had started to smoke and it was really nothing serious, thank goodness.

After a dinner of steak and mushrooms, we put on our pajamas and loafed around. I wonder if this is such a good idea, since I think our train is more public than Grand Central Station. I've never seen so many people walking through and watching us.

In case anyone at home would like to write to any of us out at the Round-up (and I'm sure we'd all appreciate it), I'll include the address: Name of girl, 3C0302 — (girl's number), Girl Scout Senior Round-up, Colorado Springs, Col. The girls' numbers are: Jennet Cramer, 1; Ruth Flory, 3; Barbara Smith, 4; Sylvia Smith, 5; Susan Scharf, 6; Gail Swank, 7; Faith Zahorik, 8; myself, 2.

We're now going to try to get comfortable (as much as you can in train seats) and sleep for the night. Tomorrow we will arrive in Chicago to change trains at 7:35 a.m. so we'd better get some sleep.

Auction Sale For Cherry Lane Church Building

Cherry Lane — Plans for an auction sale for the benefit of the building fund of the Cherry Lane Methodist Church were discussed at a meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service held at the home of Mrs. Fred Henry.

Donations of furniture, dishes, old picture frames and any other salable items will be welcomed. Anyone wishing to donate to the auction may call Mrs. Fred J. Henry, HA 1-7068. There will also be refreshments on sale.

Mrs. Lucy Hartman presided at the meeting and led the devotions in the absence of Mrs. William Cron.

Jr. Crusaders Plan Roast For July Meeting

Bartonsville — Dawn Frailey presided at the June meeting of the Junior Crusaders of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School held at the parish house. Reports were presented by Amy Young and Kathryn Cyphers.

Miss Marian Kulp conducted a Bible study on "Little Things That Count."

Plans were made to hold a hot dog roast on Friday night, July 17. Those attending are requested to bring the hot dogs and roll they can eat. Beverages will be furnished by the Crusaders.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Joseph Dunbar and Mrs. Claude Cyphers.

Members present were Amy Young, Sarah Jane Cyphers, Kathryn Cyphers, Dawn Frailey, Joanne Dunbar, Judy Holdorf, Margie Holdorf and Bobby Holdorf. These guests also attended.

Chaperones were Miss Marian Kulp, Mrs. Claude Cyphers, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar and Mrs. Haviland Heller.

Sue Stulgaitis President Of Jolly Joiners

Neola — Susan Stulgaitis was elected president of the Jolly Joiners of Neola at their meeting recently. Other officers included Karl Walters, vice president; Barbara Kjar, secretary; Dianne Shupp, treasurer; Judy Veety, game leader and Marjorie Walter, reporter.

They chose sewing as their project and went together on a shopping trip to purchase their fabric and patterns. Karl Walters and Susan Stulgaitis formed the refreshment committee.

Fish Fry For Joanne Dunbar On 10th Birthday

Bartonsville — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunbar entertained friends and relatives on Sunday, June 28, at a fish fry and birthday party honoring their daughter, Joanne, who was ten years old on the following day.

Dinner was served on the lawn with birthday cake and ice cream following the regular meal.

Joanne was the recipient of many gifts.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dunbar, Mr. and Mrs. Haviland Heller, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heller, Mrs. Maude Bush, Mrs. Ethel Reinert, Joanne Dunbar, Emma Dunbar, Russell Felker and the hosts Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunbar.

It really pays to rinse raisins thoroughly in hot water and drain before adding them to muffins because they'll taste plump and juicy in the baked product, and won't withdraw any moisture from the batter. The frosting won't melt!

Heating some of that good frosted coffee cake that comes frozen in a foil plate with a see-through plastic top? Cut as many portions as you plan to serve and put them on a round wire rack in a skillet. Allow to stand over moderate heat, without being covered for about five minutes or until hot through. The frosting won't melt!

Fire Co. Picnic At Merola Home Wednesday

Stroud Township — Firemen, friends and relatives are invited to join with members of the auxiliary to the Stroud Township Volunteer Fire Company for a picnic at the Merola estate, Poplar Valley, on Wednesday, July 8.

Those attending should bring a covered dish, table service, table cloth and beverage. Supper will be served at 6 p.m.

Visiting in N.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Miller and sons, Steve and Elaine, of Brown St., are spending a vacation with the former's son, Richard Miller and family in Goldsboro, N.C., where Richard is in service.

Wesley WSCS Ends Season With Meeting

Bartonsville — The Women's Society of Christian Service of Wesley Chapel met for the last time for this season at the social hall on Thursday night, June 25.

Spiritual life secretary, Mrs. Harry Armitage opened the meeting with a devotional period. Susie Reichard read the Scripture lesson and spoke on "Home Missions," telling of the need for home missionaries in our own homes and among our own people.

Mrs. Gerald Miller presented a report on the May conference.

Plans were made to dispense with the July and August meetings of the group and to resume regular meetings in the Fall.

WCS members bid farewell to one of their number, Susie Reichard, who is leaving this area to become a home missionary. She expects to be in Al-lentown for some time.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thiel Feller.

Fire Co. Picnic At Merola Home Wednesday

Stroud Township — Firemen, friends and relatives are invited to join with members of the auxiliary to the Stroud Township Volunteer Fire Company for a picnic at the Merola estate, Poplar Valley, on Wednesday, July 8.

Those attending should bring a covered dish, table service, table cloth and beverage. Supper will be served at 6 p.m.

Heating some of that good frosted coffee cake that comes frozen in a foil plate with a see-through plastic top? Cut as many portions as you plan to serve and put them on a round wire rack in a skillet. Allow to stand over moderate heat, without being covered for about five minutes or until hot through. The frosting won't melt!

Two Escape From Jail In Honesdale

HONESDALE—Two presumably armed men have escaped from the Wayne County jail, Honesdale. The men, Mario Marrero, 21, formerly of Trenton, N.J., and Robert Kuchs, 29, of Greentown, RD 1, mysteriously escaped from the jail sometime Saturday, between 5 a.m. and 8 p.m.

According to Deputy Sheriff Merillee, there was nothing broken and no signs of how the escape was executed. "The men must be supermen or something," he said.

Residents of the area are warned because the men are believed to be carrying weapons. A local store in Honesdale was broken into and rifles were taken.

Description

Marrero is about five foot six or seven and weighs between 130 and 140 pounds. He has a crew cut and does not wear glasses. He was brought to Honesdale from Easton where he had been serving a term since December 11, 1958.

He was to be in Honesdale for one day where he would appear before the judge and plead guilty on two counts of motor vehicle larceny and then return to Easton today.

Kuchs, formerly of Greentown, RD 1, is five foot six and weighs 130 to 135 pounds. He is wearing heavy tortoise shell glasses and needs a hair cut. Kuchs was brought to the Honesdale jail on a parole violation. He is on parole from Georgia. He was to be taken to Fairview Hospital for examination.

According to Merillee bloodhounds from Hawthorne Barracks, in New York, are being used in the search. Twenty to 25 troopers are covering the eight mile radius of the Gulf Hill Area.

Ceremonies Featured For Boy Scouts

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Recently an important event in the life of Scout Troop 92 and the Water Gap Explorer Post when Board Review and Court of Honor were held in Kulp Scout Hall and Charter Presentation took place.

Elmer Morgan, Delaware Valley Council Executive, presented the charter accepted by Francis Drake, Institutional Representative for the scouts.

Not all the Explorers could be present and one Boy Scout, David Davis, was absent because of illness. There were 12 scouts and seven explorers at the program.

Roy Wescott, Troop Committeeman, made the awards when three merit badges were presented and Life Scout Award went to David Chamberlain, who is in line for an Eagle Scout award.

The committeemen and the mothers of the boys were guests. Mrs. Delbert Davis arranged for the refreshments which were served.

How to help "1 out of 10" and help yourself, too!

Today, doctors say that 1 out of every 10 Americans has a serious mental problem. You probably come in contact with at least one such person every day—a friend, someone you work with, perhaps even a member of your own family.

This person desperately needs something that you alone can give—your understanding. Here's how you can give it.

First, remember the facts. Serious mental problems are quite widespread today. They're not rare. And they're not hopeless! In most cases, they respond well to modern medical treatment. Second, show the person with such a problem that you understand, sympathize and want to help.

As you do this—as you give your understanding to those with serious problems—learn to understand yourself, too! Learn how to keep your own emotional tensions from making life unhappy for you—and for those around you.

For valuable advice on what you can do about your tensions, send for the free booklet, "How To Deal With Your Tensions". Write: Box 2500, New York 1, New York.

Arrival Set For Fresh Air Children

TOMORROW at 12:26 p.m., 35 children will arrive from New York City. These are the 35 lucky children who are being sponsored for a two week visit in the Pocono Mountains by the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund.

The children will be taken from the Railroad Station in East Stroudsburg, by bus to the YMCA in Stroudsburg, where they will be met by families with which they will stay for the two weeks.

The parents should be at the YMCA between 12:45 and 1 p.m. As soon as they are brought over from the station parents will meet their children.

If at the end of the first week, any parents would like to keep their Fresh Air child for more than two weeks they may do so by notifying Mrs. John Wilson Sr., Delaware Water Gap. Children may stay after the two weeks until August 5 or August 26.

In addition to Mrs. Wilson, chairman, the local Fresh Air committee is made up of Mrs. Jack Chapman, Newfoundland; Mrs. Thomas Shoemith, Mr. John Stunford, Mrs. E. Holt Wyckoff and Mrs. Jack Pine.

Local Residents

Children are being taken by the following local residents: Mrs. Anna Melick, Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brands, Stroudsburg; Mrs. Lucy Patti, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Leitner, Delaware Water Gap; Mr. and Mrs. Max Blum, Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Seigfried, East Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Lee, East Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Clark Frailey, East Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Blair Bell, East Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Merola, Delaware Water Gap; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kresge, Stroudsburg, RD 1; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chapman, LaAnna; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hobbs, Stroudsburg, RD; Mr. and Mrs. William Bonser, RD, Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. John McConnell, Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Dorothy Koehler, Saylorburg; Mr. and Mrs. Ella Dolack, Delaware Water Gap; Mrs. Ora Woodling, Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Saunders, East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Grace Pierce, Stroudsburg, RD; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Trach, Saylorburg; Dr. and Mrs. Frank Urdel, Newfoundland; Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hanson, Newfoundland; Mr. and Mrs. Janse Bartleson, Newfoundland; Mr. and Mrs. William Dudy, Newfoundland; Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Marcia, Newfoundland; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Walters, Newfoundland; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cleveland, Marshalls Creek; and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Rotary Club Inducts New Official Slate

MOUNT POCONO—The Rotary Club of Mount Pocono held its regular weekly meeting at the Mount Pocono Methodist Church with almost 100 percent attendance.

The program portion of the meeting was devoted to the induction of the new officers for 1959 and 1960. John F. O'Neill, the retiring president, presented his annual report on the activities and accomplishments during his administration and paid high tribute to the officers, chairman of the various committees and the membership as a whole for their wholehearted cooperation in making the past Rotary year a most successful one.

In his concluding remarks O'Neill assured the incoming officers of the wholehearted cooperation of the club during the coming year. He reminded club members that the Rotary is to meet the challenge of the changing world, it will be called upon this coming year to encourage some new concepts in service; to interject the new ideas in the new settings; to inspire the individual Rotarian to broaden his horizon; to convince him there are new worlds to conquer in the service to Rotary.

Incoming president, Michael DeSanto, presented to O'Neill on behalf of the club a white gold diamond Past President's Emblem for service during his administration.

The new officers for 1959-1960 are DeSanto, president; David E. Neison, vice-president; Charles Bentley, secretary; Donald Robbins, treasurer; Eric Danisch, second vice-president and George Walker, director. Louis DePaul of the Fellowship Committee, presented five visiting Rotarians who are vacationing in the Poconos.

Plan Unanimously Voted For Railway Express Agency

A NEW plan for the Railway Express Agency, Inc., was unanimously voted Thursday by directors of the agency in an effort to save it through a three-and-a-half-year reorganization project.

A single note of partial dissent was struck by the director representing the New York Central Railroad who made it clear that his ballot was subject to second thought.

The New York Central is the largest stockholder in the Agency having 14 percent of the total 998 shares. Ernest C. Nickerson, Central's vice-president for passenger traffic and a director of the agency, said that the plan would be studied and a decision will be made as to what the Central will do.

Central announced last Dec. 23 that it was canceling its operating contract with the agency as of next

Jan. 1 because of an annual loss of $11,000,000 for providing facilities for express operations. At that point the carrier was in favor of a more efficient small shipment service.

Upon announcement of Central's proposed withdrawal, the other 36 Eastern Lines indicated that they too planned to quit the express business. Western roads then declared that without the Eastern lines it would be impracticable to continue the agency's operations.

Principal feature of the reorganization plan is to put the operations on a profitable, self-supporting basis. William B. Johnston, president of the agency's board estimated that railroad losses from the operation in 1959 would approximate $39,000,000 out-of-pocket and $72,000,000 on a fully allocated cost basis.

Pen Argyl Railroader Listed 'Fair'

CHARLES A. Bachman, a 67-year-old Pen Argyl trainman who lost both legs under a freight car Thursday night, remained in fair condition at Newton Memorial Hospital last night.

Bachman, of 205 C St., Pen Argyl, was taken to the hospital in critical condition after he was jolted from a Lehigh and New England freight car ladder while he and other trainmen were working to transfer some uncoupled cars on a 157-car train to a siding.

Above Knees
Both his legs were severed above the knees, police said.

A native of Allentown and a resident of Pen Argyl for 44 years, Bachman was a crew member of L&N's Train Number 707.

A lifetime employee of the railroad, he is a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the Trainmen's Lodge, the Moose and Elks and the Northampton Reformed Church.

19 Teams Set For Shawnee Tournament

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE
Nineteen teams, representing golf and country clubs from five states will compete in the fifth annual National team championship golf tournament starting at Fred Waring's Shawnee Inn and Country Club today and continuing through Thursday, July 9.

Each team represented by the club pro and three club players will play four daily rounds, of 18 holes each, for the title which is decided on the better ball of four—some low gross for the 72 holes of play.

Reading Country Club, of Reading, Pa., headed by club professional Henry Doe, Jr., and including Ed Chrusciel, Sam Cecodrelli and Ed Smith, which finished runner-up for the title last year, heads this year's field. Baltimore Country Club, of Baltimore, Md., last year's champion, will not defend its title. Country Club of Maryland, Towson, Maryland, 1957 champion, also is in this year's field and heads a strong contingent of clubs from the South.

Bud Lewis, former Philadelphia District P.G.A. champion, spearheads the Manufacturers Country Club team from Orelana, Pa. Harry Obitz, head pro at Shawnee, will head the hosts team's lineup, while Harold Evans, with the Bucknell Golf Club team from Lewisburg and John Moyer, with the Schuylkill Country Club team from Orwigsburg, make up the other Pennsylvania team.

Andy Gibson, Country Club of Md., pro who took the individual pro honors last year and Max Elbin, pro at the Burning Tree Club, Bethesda, Md., President Eisenhower's home club, head the Southern group.

Bears Notch 7th Victory

NEWFOUNDLAND — Hobie Hutchins' five hit pitching and Gus Gustin's perfect day at the plate moved Newfoundland to a 12-2 Wayne County League victory over Brownville here yesterday.

The victory, splined by Gustin's four-for-four day, was the Bears seventh in 10 league starts.

Bob Haag, Davitt and Hartshorn also contributed two hits each to the Bears assault on losing pitcher Whitecavage and his successor Curtis.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM

By Jack Hand
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm and Milwaukee's Lew Burdette are expected to be the starting pitchers in Tuesday's 26th All-Star baseball game at Forbes Field.

Managers Casey Stengel of the American League and Fred Haney of the National will make their official announcements Monday when the batting orders also will be released to newsmen.

Stengel, the New York Yankee skipper who will be running his ninth All-Star club, has hinted strongly that the Baltimore knuckleball pitcher would be his starter. On a recent visit to Baltimore, he told catcher Gus Triandos of the Orioles, "you are my catcher and you are going to be catching somebody close to you."

Wilhelm, a non-playing member of the 1953 All-Star squad in the National League, has enjoyed a remarkable comeback this year as a starter.

Stengel is expected to give the Nationals a good look at Ryne Duren, his Yankee relief ace. He probably will save Duren for the late innings, using either Chicago's early Wynn or Detroit's Jim Bunning in the middle innings.

That would leave Chicago's Billy Pierce, Kansas City's Bud Daley and the Yankees' Whitey Ford for trouble spots.

If Haney decides against Burdette he might go with Don Drysdale, the Los Angeles Dodger ace whose sideman delivery is so effective against right handed batters. There is only one left handed batter, second baseman Nellie Fox, of Chicago, in the American starting lineup.

Warren Spahn, 38-year-old southpaw ace of the Braves' staff, would be the logical choice if the American batting order weren't jammed with so many right handers.

When Stengel starts to run in his left handed pinch hitters, like Ted Williams of Boston and Yogi Berra of New York after the first three innings, Haney probably will switch to a left hander — either Spahn or San Francisco's Johnny Antonelli. Gene Conley, lanky Philadelphia right hander who was traded away by Haney last spring, is another possibility for the middle innings.

Haney has two of the best relief men in the National League in his bullpen for the late innings. They are Roy Face of Pittsburgh and Don Elston, Chicago Club right hander who was named Saturday as a replacement for the ailing Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell of St. Louis.

The National is a slight 6 to 5 favorite in the Pittsburgh park although the American holds a 15-10 edge in the series. This is only the first of two All-Star games this year, with the second set for Aug. 3 at Los Angeles.

The latest word from Detroit is that Al Kaline probably will be ready to go in center field. He has been out for several days after undergoing corrective surgery for a cheekbone fracture suffered June 18. Kaline's outfield mates will be Minnie Minoso of Cleveland and Rocky Colavito of Cleveland.

Rest Of Lineup
In addition to Triandos, the rest of the starting American League team includes first baseman Bill Skowron of New York, second baseman Fox, shortstop Luis Aparicio of Chicago and third baseman Harmon Killebrew, Washington's slugger.

The National infield starters are first baseman Orlando Cepeda of San Francisco, second baseman Johnny Temple of Cincinnati, shortstop Ernie Banks of Chicago and third baseman Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee. Del Crandall of Milwaukee is the catcher and the outfielders are Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, a unanimous choice, Willie Mays of San Francisco and Wally Moon of Los Angeles.

A sellout crowd of about 35,000 is assured for Pittsburgh's first All-Star game since 1944.

Wall Golf Take Hits $36,686.66

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Statistics released by the Professional Golfers Assn. prove what his fellow competitors have known for some time—Art Wall is about as good as they come on the pro tour.

Art Also Heads
The statistics released Saturday show the Honesdale, Pa. pro is the top money winner so far in 1959 with $36,686.66. Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., is a distant second at $21,436.

Wall, the Masters champion, has the most Ryder Cup points, 925 8-15 and leads in the Vardon Trophy competition with a round stroke average of 70.80.

Doug Ford, Mahopac, N.Y., leads in the other category, points awarded for finishing position in tournaments. He has 1,281 and Wall is second with 1,097.50.

Art Center To Open Door To New Talent

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of two articles dealing with art and culture in Monroe County and in the Pocono Mountains.

By David Ottaway
SYMBOL of an augmenting interest in the arts and crafts throughout the Pocono Mountains is the recently created Pocono Art Center.

The Center, as a symbol, should be understood not as the zenith of the art movement in the area but as a stepping stone to bigger and greater things in the near future. Plans are being made right now for a permanent art center located somewhere within the Stroudsburg vicinity.

Placed in its historical perspective, the Art Center has a long line of forerunners which have helped to forge a way and create an interest without which the present Center would not have been possible.

The Pocono Mountain Art Group was formed some 26 years ago. It was the first of its sort in the area and provides for those persons actively interested in painting. Meetings are held once every two weeks at which time artist and would-be-artists gather together to work at their easels.

The purpose of the meetings is well served, but the Art Group is limited by its very nature. It serves only one facet of art and it does not aspire to teach painting.

Within the past 10 years

three other outlets for artistic endeavor and appreciation have been established. The open air art show, held twice a Summer, and the annual show at Wyckoff's Department Store, held every year in the early part of January, have offered an opportunity for local artists, professional and amateur, to display their works.

A more recent development is the Gallery Art Club, later known simply as The Gallery. In its function it is an organization set up as a club where artists can exhibit their work regularly and where works of art from outside of the area and of national renown can be brought before the eyes of the community.

"To bring art to people and people to art by enlarging the opportunities of our community for first hand contact with art of living artists" is the chief aspiration of The Gallery.

Established first in 1956, The Gallery was for a time located at The Famous Department Store in East Stroudsburg. Then it was relocated at the YMCA building. At present the club is inactive.

The fact that these art groups and exhibitions find patronage in this community strongly suggests that there is a growing interest in and appreciation for art and the artist. While in the initial campaign to bring art to the community the artist themselves were the mainstays behind the movement, it is not true today that they alone are interested in achieving this end.

Dispersed over various forms of modern art and over the judges of recent art shows in Stroudsburg have both created and given witness to a concern for the arts in general.

The League of Women Voters has made a study of our community and compared it to others within the state. It was discovered that the Stroudsburg area was above the average level of intelligence for communities of this size.

Area high schools send many students to excellent colleges throughout the country. There is the intelligent in the community to sustain and aid the current movement.

Before the establishment of the Pocono Art Center there was no adequate outlet for creative interest. The Gallery is mainly for exhibitions and the Pocono Art Group is merely a meeting and not a teaching grounds.

The opportunity has come before the community to establish a permanent center where many forms and facets of art may be practiced and taught to anyone interested in working with their hands and imagination.

Viewing Screens

For Gene Kelly's first NBC special next season on December 10 he has signed Donald O'Connor and Carol Lawrence, star of "West Side Story." W. Somerset Maugham's "The Moon and Sixpence" is a Fall entry on NBC and will star Laurence Olivier with Judith Anderson, Hume Cronyn, Jessica Tandy, Geraldine Fitzgerald and Denholm Elliott.

Chet Huntley leaves for Africa soon to film two 60-minute specials on that continent.

A situation comedy starring Dennis O'Keefe will be aired in the 8 p.m. Tuesday spot on CBS next season, in place of "The Lawbreakers," which has been postponed for a year.

Broderick Crawford stars as Chief Dan Matthews on "Highway Patrol" at 7 tonight on ch. 4, and, taking a much needed vacation at his favorite fishing lodge, finds the place under new management with some very strange "guests" . . . John Payne stars as Vini Bonner on "Restless Gun" at 8 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4, when a supposedly "dead" girl is discovered in a Quaker settlement.

Robert Young and Jane Wyatt co-star as Jim and Margaret Anderson on the "Father Knows Best" rerun at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10, when, although her family thinks she is being played for a sucker, Margaret continues to help a family newly arrived in town . . . An historic trip from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific via the Northwest Passage, with Commodore Owen Robertson, R.C.N., narrating the films of the trip, will be presented on "Bold Journey" at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7.

In what is a turnabout role for him, Jack Lemmon stars as a hardened gunman whose attempts to dominate a prosperous cattle town meet with opposition from a woman on the initial rebroadcast in the "Frontier Justice" Summer series at 9 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10, featuring Melvyn Douglas as host . . . Craig Stevens stars as "Peter Gunn" at 9 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4, and when Edie (Lola Albright) uses another apartment while hers is being painted, she finds a corpse in the bathroom and turns to Peter for help.

Richard Kiley stars in "The Guy in Ward 4" at 9:30 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4, as an Al Force psychiatrist who is at the breaking point, sending men back into action when he isn't even sure they are cured . . . Hugh O'Brian stars in "Chain of Command" on "Desilu Playhouse" at 10 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10, featuring Martin Milner, John Doucette, Karl Swenson and Lynn Berray in a drama of conflict in today's U.S. Army, concerning an officer who takes command of his first unit—a company of recruits which includes a gold-bricking private who holds a personal sway over him.

TOBYHANNA — Signal supply history was made at the Army Signal Corps depot in Tobyhanna last week.

The first shipment of Signal Corps equipment to Army posts in Europe left by a new "roll on, roll off" method that authorities claim will revolutionize military transportation techniques.

A special trailer is used for the purpose. Into it is packed complete sets of Signal Corps equipment, including spares and maintenance parts.

The trailer is then hooked to a truck or loaded on a railroad flat car and transported to the New York Port of Embarkation. There it is rolled aboard a vessel especially modified for this type of shipment.

Never Touched

From the time the equipment is packed at the depot until it reaches its soldier customers overseas, it is never touched by other hands.

This has numerous advantages according to Lt. Col. Chester Hewitt, the depot's transportation officer.

Most important, he says, the equipment will arrive at its destination complete and intact, ready for use.

By reducing the number of handlings enroute, there is less chance of damage to the highly sensitive Signal Corps sets.

Savings will result from the fewer markings required and elimination of special overseas packaging for each small component.

Approximately one-third of the 24,000 tons of material shipped from the Tobyhanna Signal Depot each year goes to overseas points. Estimated value of these shipments is $40,000,000.

Lt. Col. Hewitt expects that when "roll on, roll off" picks up momentum an average of 15 trailers, each with 15-ton capacity, will be shipped from the depot each month.

Pope John Urges Search For Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXII recently urged the statesmen of the earth to "try every approach" in a search for peace in a troubled world.

In the first encyclical of his eight-month reign, the head of the Roman Catholic Church warned that the dread alternative is nuclear war with "appalling destruction and ruin" for "victor and vanquished" alike.

"Already too many cemeteries of those fallen in war cover the earth's surface and solemnly warn that all should be, at long last, brought back to harmony, unity and a just peace," the 77-year-old pontiff declared.

The encyclical—it means literally a letter to many—was addressed to the bishops of the Church. Its theme was "truth, unity and peace." It ranged widely over human relationships, from nations down to the family unit.

The Pope "lovingly invited" the various Christian faiths to reunite in the Roman Catholic Church.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

New Show At Bushkill Playhouse

BUSHKILL — "Tunnel of Love" will open the second week of plays at the Bushkill Playhouse tomorrow.

"I never heard an audience laugh louder, longer, or more often," said Dave Garroby of this long-running New York play.

"Tunnel of Love is a comedy concerning manners and morals. The action takes place in Westport, Conn., home of artists and Madison Ave. tyros.

Jack Randall will be introduced to the audiences of the Poole. Jack has worked in theatres in Ivoryton, Conn., and in the Panama Canal Zone where he appeared in such plays as "Arsenic and Old Lace," "Elizabeth the Queen," "The Matchmaker," and "The Lady's Not For Burning."

First Appearance

Appearing as Isolde, his wife, will be Julie Craig, who is also making her first appearance at the Bushkill Playhouse.

Formerly a member of the Pandora Players, she has also done Winter Stock on the west coast — this past Winter playing in "The Front Page" with Pat O'Brien in Hollywood.

Among her credits are "Bus Stop," "Inherit the Wind," "The Glass Menagerie," and "Visit to a Small Planet," with stars such as Eddie Bracken, Paul Douglas, John Ireland, Robert Preston, David Wayne, and Eline Stewart.

Also cast in this week's play are Beverlee Galli, Marjorie Nichols, and Sid Gorelick, who appeared in last week's production, "Private Lives." Amy Steele makes her playhouse debut in this week's production.

Mt. Bethel Pastor Moves To Allentown

REV. Stewart Henry Bortner, Mount Bethel, R.D. 1, has been elected pastor of Faith United Church of Christ, Allentown, and will preach his first sermon there on August 16.

Rev. Bortner succeeds Rev. Nevin M. Kirk, who has accepted a call to St. Peter's UCC in Westminster, Md.

Rev. Bortner recently announced his resignation as pastor of the Mount Bethel charge. The charge includes Trinity Church, Stone Church, Mount Zion Church, Martins Creek; St. Mark's Church, Flicksville, and Bethany Church, Johnsville.

Rev. Bortner has served the Mount Bethel charge since 1954. He has been active in synodical work as chairman of the town and country church committee, representative on the World Service helper project and director of leadership training on the committee of Christian Education.

Dean

He has also served as dean of the Leadership Training School of the Bangor Area Ministerium and deputy welfare director of the Upper Mount Bethel Township Civil Defense unit.

Rev. Bortner received a bachelor of arts degree from Franklin and Marshall College in 1951 and a bachelor of divinity from Lancaster Theological Seminary in 1954.

Sentenced To Chair

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A criminal court jury recently decreed that Eddy the trice chair for the murder of Louise Bergen. The verdict of guilty returned by six men and six women contained no recommendation of mercy.

Twelve Words that Open a New World

One sentence, in a book read today probably more often than any other except the Bible, has opened the door to an entirely new outlook on religion in daily life: "Disse Love always has met and always will meet every human need."

This sentence is found in the Christian Science textbook SCIENCE AND HEALTH with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

Through this book the healing power of the Bible promises has been made practical and provable. Christian Science has restored Christian healing to the modern world.
